As a result of the Australian Government agreeing to participate in the exchange of information with other jurisdictions under the Foreign Account Tax Compliance Act (FATCA)\(^1\) and Common Reporting Standard (CRS)\(^2\), Financial Institutions are required to undertake due diligence to determine account holders’ jurisdiction of tax residence. If the account is in the name of individuals or joint individuals, complete this form. If the account is in the name of an entity (including an Australian Retirement Fund) you will need to complete the form for entities. This form can be obtained from www-au.computershare.com/Investor/help/printableforms and select ‘Tax Residency Self-Certification Form Entity’.

If you have received this form it is important the account holder’s jurisdiction of tax residence is certified. If not certified, the Financial Institution in which you are a securityholder may be required to report the account holder’s name, address, amounts paid to the account and value of securities to the Australian Taxation Office who may report those details to the Internal Revenue Service of the United States and possibly other tax authorities.

If you certify you are a tax resident outside of Australia, the Financial Institution in which you are a securityholder may be required to report the securityholder’s name, address, amounts paid to the securityholder and value of securities to the Australian Taxation Office who may report those details to the tax authority in which the securityholder is a tax resident.

If the investment is held by individuals jointly, a separate form is required from each individual.
